

Broadview Ventures Promotes Daniel Gottlieb to Director of Broadview Ventures

Boston, Massachusetts, January 4, 2024

Broadview Ventures, a mission-driven investment firm dedicated to accelerating the development of promising technology for the diagnosis and treatment of cardiovascular disease and stroke, is excited to announce the promotion of Daniel Gottlieb to Director. In this role, Daniel will continue to focus on new investment activity and portfolio management within Broadview's MedTech practice. His role will also expand to include deeper involvement in long-term portfolio strategy, as well as Broadview investment operations and organizational growth.

Daniel's extensive operational experience with startups and large multinationals along with his corporate venture and business development background have been instrumental in executing and managing Broadview investments, including recent activities in Digital Health. Daniel was responsible for Broadview co-leading the first institutional financings in academic spinouts XII Medical and Cardiosense and serves on the boards of both companies. He also holds board observer roles at Nyra Medical and CroíValve. Previously, Daniel held board observer roles at Nido Surgical (acquired) and Puzzle Medical.

Prior to joining Broadview, Daniel was Vice President of Corporate Development at Proteon Therapeutics, and held strategy and operational roles at Abbott Vascular and Guidant. Daniel was a key member of Guidant's corporate venture and business development group, Compass, where he led investments in early-stage cardiovascular device companies, including CardioMEMS (acquired) and Neovasc (acquired). Daniel holds a BA from the University of Pennsylvania and an MBA from the Tuck School of Business at Dartmouth College.

Broadview is strongly committed to the career progression and recognition of its investment team members, and I look forward to continued partnership with Daniel in his expanded leadership role at Broadview.
